DR. WHITE ARRAIGNED ON MURDER INDICTMENT

Pleads Not Guilty and Is Released on a Bail of Eight Thousand Dollars

Dr. Herbert A. White of North Hampton was arraigned at 7:45 o'clock this morning before a special session of the Rockingham county superior court on the charge of murdering Mary A. Lane of Stratham. Her death was the result of a criminal surgical operation in this city.

Chief Justice Robert M. Wallace presided and the business consisted only of the legal formalities of placing the prisoner at the bar, reading the indictment, hearing his plea and entering it on the record, fixing and accepting bail and adjournment. Court was in session four minutes.

Dr. White pleaded not guilty, furnished $8,000 bail and was released. The bail is the same as when he was bound over from the Portsmouth municipal court.

County Solicitor Batchelder represented the state and Samuel W.

Emery, Jr., appeared for Dr. White. The date and place for trial were announced as Jan. 27 at Exeter. Chief Justice Wallace and Justice Pike will preside.

A GOOD UNION MAN

C. E. Hodgdon of Ward Three is Such a Man

In naming the candidates for office on the different municipal tickets to be supported on Tuesday next, the Central Labor Union failed to take up the name of C. E. Hodgdon, a candidate for the council from Ward Three, which is no doubt an oversight and nothing more.

Mr. Hodgdon, when it comes to labor work and organization, has long been affiliated with such organizations on the Boston and Maine railroad where his work is well known. He is a staunch member of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and has been since it was formed a member of Longfellow Lodge of Portsmouth to which every Portsmouth member belongs.

No man of this branch of organized labor has done more to advance the interest than Mr. Hodgdon and it is no more than a matter of justice that this article appears in his behalf.

BOY KIDNAPPED BY AUTOMOBILISTS

Reed Bilbruck Seized, Bound and Carried Off

Not the Boy Wanted and Was Thrown Out At Little Boar's Head

Portsmouth had a visit on Friday from kidnappers who did a job that is a puzzle to the police who are now working on the case with little headway, owing to the circumstances surrounding the same.

Shortly after four o'clock Reed W. Bilbruck, aged nine years, son of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Bilbruck of Woodbury avenue, while passing along near the corner of State and Cass streets was seized without a word of warning by two men who came along in a large racing automobile, grabbed the child and were off. The boy tells the story that he was wrapped in a blanket from head to foot, then bound hand and foot and carried on the knees of the two men to Little Boar's Head and then dumped into the lonely road. The boy describes the men as large, wearing auto glasses and masks. He also says they held a whispered conversation while speeding over the road but he was unable to distinguish any of the talk. When at Little Boar's Head they unwrapped the blanket, took a good look at the boy and then told him to "get out and get out quick."

They then started at a rapid pace leaving him crying by the roadside.

If the boy's story is reliable, which his parents say it is, the men evidently were after another boy in that neighborhood and got the wrong one.

The lad, crying as if his heart would break, made his way to the home of James Hartford, told his story and was given money to pay his way back home on the trolley car. The child was quite sick up to noon today as the result of his experience.

Nobody in the neighborhood saw the net carried out and the boy says his cries were smothered by the blanket.

WITH THE THEATRICAL FOLK

You Will Want to See This

What is said to be one of the most interesting dramas of the year, "The Call of the North," in which Henry B. Harris will offer Robert Edeson at Portsmouth Music Hall next Wednesday.

The play was written by George Broadhurst, author of many big successes, and is founded on what is conceded to be Stewart Edward White's most dramatic story, "Conjuror's House."

Mr. Edeson takes the role of Ned Trent, a free trader, who, because of his father who has been sent to his death by the factor of this particular trading post, has decided to avenge his parent, and put's in the Hudson Bay territory for the purpose of securing the necessary proofs against the man whose life it is to be the payment of the crime Trent is ordered out of the territory by the factor, but he returns, is captured, and is informed that unless he becomes an employee of the post he will be sent on La Touche Treason, or into the wilderness without any means of a rifle, there to share the fate of his father. Trent's fate is to become one of them and through the love for the factor's daughter he secures the necessary firearms and supplies. His capture and final pardon is brought about through what is said to be scenes of fine dramatic construction.

Henry B. Harris who is presenting Mr. Edeson has surrounded the star with an exceptionally fine company including Mr. Stephen Wright, Mr. Seymour Stratton, Mr. Thomas McNaught, Mr. Percival Ashcroft, Mr. W. J. Dawson, Mr. Lawrence Edlin, Mr. Harrison Port, Mr. James Rawley and Mr. Edward G. Mann, Miss Ann Murdoch, Miss Maudie Knapp, Miss Beatrice Tremble and Miss Anna Mark.

"Meadow-Brook Farm"

"Meadow-Brook Farm" is a story and clear in every line, and is staged and acted. Its dramatic story commands attention at the start, and on the final roll of the curtain sends those in the audience home happier and better than when they came.

W. E. Mann has agreed to expense to give the production of "Meadow-Brook Farm" being

CARE OF THE HAIR

CLEANSERS SHOULD BE CHOSEN WITH REGARD TO COLOR.

The Necessity of Care in Selecting a Cleansing Agent—Amount of Natural Chemicals is Not the Same in Any Two Heads.

While it is true that a few shampoo mixtures are efficacious for all conditions of scalp and hair, it is equally beyond doubt that the majority of cleansers, to be of real benefit, should be chosen with regard to the color of the tresses and the state of the scalp.

The necessity of selecting a cleansing agent that agrees with both hair follicles and the scalp will be readily understood when it is realized that the color of the locks is governed entirely by natural chemicals, and when hair begins to turn gray it is because these shades, either from natural causes, fade. If it were possible to know precisely to what degree the fading exists, then there might be made most perfect hair restorers, but unfortunately this information cannot be given.

Paradoxically, it may be said that the amount of natural chemicals is not the same in any two heads, and this accounts for the fact that a dye that is so-called "perfect" for one, may make practically no impression on the other.

For instance, the colors that would harmonize with blond hair should contain a large percentage of sulphur. Brown hair needs carbon, red contains iron and sulphur and black has oxygen and sulphur.

That shampoos containing these various elements for the different shades of tresses will help to maintain the color, if not to increase the natural shades, is therefore a logical conclusion.

For the average blonde the whites of raw eggs are best. They contain no coloring matter and are softening and cleansing.

In making the whites into a shampoo use a tablespoonful of warm water for each white, and the two should be beaten together before being rubbed into the scalp and over the hair. No soap is required.

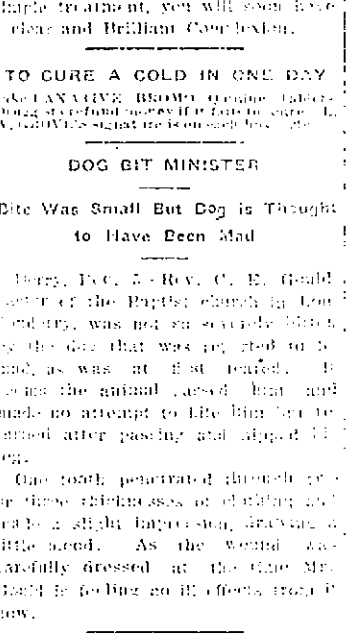

A cleansing mixture for red or brown hair is made from the yolks of the whole egg. The yolks contain sulphur and become a natural coloring agent.

For black and dark brown hair a combination of chloro is an excellent one. To half a pint of it a raw egg is added. The two are well beaten and rubbed thoroughly over the hair and head before rinsing in clean water. This is not a mixture to be used by pronounced blondes.

Any of these is simple to use and, if persistently applied, the hair, after years, will show the benefit desired. All are soap substitutes. No soap should ever be rubbed directly upon the hair, but must be dissolved first and applied in jelly or liquid form.

In Soft Silk Crepe.

None of the fashionable, silk materials is shown in a greater variety of coloring than crepe de Chine. A semi-transparent gown in pale yellow, outlined with silk, of the same shade and trimmed with bands of Venise insertion. The skirt has a little arrangement but it is a fall of fallows over the hips. No train could be stiffer than the style of crepe de Chine lined at the back.

with its creases at the ends of which are gold tassels.

The dress has a round yoke of black embroidered with flowers by hand. It and below this is a narrow band of crepe de Chine lined with Venise lace and trimmed with hand-embroidery.

Crepe de Chine and crepe de Lure are excellent for their soft and pliant effect, lending themselves perfectly even to the delicate and usually reserved for the shoulders of them and silk tulle.

Instead of a Brush.

A piece of velvet made to a pad with a strap across, in which to tie the hand, is an excellent thing, by rubbing a cloth over the back of the hand instead of using a brush, and giving brilliant gloss.

HOW WOMAN WAS MADE.

The Hindu Theory a Pretty Substitute for the Rib Theory.

The poor Hindu was sadly put to it to account for woman, but no man was more than what she was since his time. According to the legend, Twashti, the Vulcan of Hindu mythology, created the world, but when he looked at the final object which was to be his child of desire, he found to his annoyance that he had run out of materials. He had not a single chunk of solid matter left.

With a mental exclamation upon his carelessness he fell into a profound meditation, the result of which was that he took "the roundness of the moon, the undulating curves of the serpent, the graceful twist of the creeping plant, the light shivering of the grass blade and the slenderness of the willow, the velvety softness of the flowers, the lightness of the feather, the gentle gaze of the doe, the frailness of the sunbeam, the tears of the cloud, the inconstancy of the wind, the timidity of the hare, the vanity of the peacock, the hardness of the diamond, the emerald of the tiger, the heat of the fire, the chill of the snow, the crackling of the parrot and the cooling of the dove."

He mixed these together in equal portions and the result was woman. After all, demands the Kansas City Journal, isn't this an advance upon the rib theory?

Tablets for the Auto.

It is for the woman who motors that most time and thought have been expended this season in getting up conveniences as well as luxuries. It seems as if there was scarcely a thing lacking in the equipment of the up to date auto which can contribute to the comfort of the motorist.

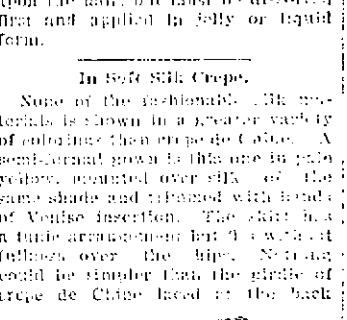

One of the new outfits for touring is a medicine case in which many common remedies are put up in tabloid form and which altogether takes up no more space than the smallest make up box.

In the way of drugs, there are quinine, bismuth, borax and other remedies, not to mention a first aid outfit consisting of bandages, boric acid, cotton wool and plaster, plus, saleros and sponge, oils for burns, castor oil, etc.

More than this, there is a photographic outfit in tabloid form, with all the necessary chemicals for developing, toning and fixing photographs.

About Smart Hats.

The fitting complement of the tailor made gown is the medium-sized hat following rather closely the lines of the head, yet glorified with the curves and graceful lines of the more pretentious models. Floral effects were never more in demand for hat decorations but there are lovely effects in wings and feathered trimmings for millinery adornments. In the upper illustration a serviceable but effective trimmings with two American beauty roses in harmonious shades of red, the trimmings arranged at the back of the hat to lend height.

The crown of the second hat is not as high as some of the newest crowns, but it is a fashionable height. At the base is a bar of black velvet ribbon finished with a flamingo pink wing dashed with black.

Medicine Cook's Method.

A good Mexican cook, relieves the miseries of the house of worry and responsibility in a manner that is almost unknown in the United States.

The cook is given so much every day, and with this amount she will purchase each morning all the provisions for the day, including even the grapes that are usually bought in large quantities in other countries. On $1 a day a cook will provide a very good table for a family of three or four, and not enough beans and tortillas and chili to set the servants table besides.

They can really do better than their mistresses, because they can usually drive sharper bargains with the marketmen of their own class, and they have more patience to haggle over the last penny than any American housewife.

Paying Her Rent.

"You may not believe it," said a young woman to her friend, "but we pay exactly five dollars a month rent for the privilege of playing our dog in the apartment. He's a Great Dane and as we live on the top floor and take him down for exercise three times a day for fresh air, the agent considers that there is five dollars' worth of good and fun extra on his bill every month. The expensive but it's worth it to have Dave in this flat. We are four sisters, you know, and he is no more expensive than a mother or father would be."

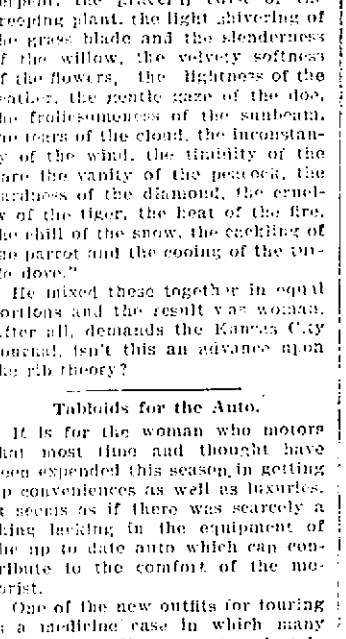

She smiled. "And look just as much protection and quiet company and some brothers," said the N. Y. World.

A SMART COMBINATION.

Shown in Two Colors for Lingerie and Tailor Made Dresses.

Linen will assert itself in many ways, not only in lingerie frocks, when the sheer handkerchief and India linens will be employed, but in tailor made dresses when the heavier qualities of the materials can be fashioned into the trim switcheries and landings that compose trig shapeliness. Combinations of linens in two colors are to be the rage. White with pastel tints will be much worn, but in colors, only two shades of one tone are permissible.

White butcher's linen, trimmed with blue is used for this neat design. The skirt has a plaited front panel and is trimmed with diamond-shaped medallions of blue linen and twistings of linen soutache braid.

The waist is truly original in design having a part of the front, the shoulder yoke and sleeves cut in one, with the white linen stitched over the blue in many points. This effect is carried out back and front on the sleeves. There is a very small lingerie yoke of white linen finished with jabot embroidery.

With the linen dress an item of importance is footgear. For street wear before noon, buff leather and patent leather pumps are the rage, but for afternoon occasions both shoes and hose match the color of the gown.

A Hint for the Bath.

The growing use of mustard in the bath tub is a modern adaptation of the principle that mustard is one of the most valuable external stimulants. To those who have not tried it, the result is really surprising. Take a tablespoonful of best mustard and add to the bath when filled. The water will be found to be of a slightly yellow-green color and absolutely free from any stinging or smarting sensation. In fact, it has a soft, velvety feeling almost like milk, but with a glowing warmth that is appreciated by the most delicate skin. Under its influence, sore and stiff joints become limber and elastic, and the whole body experiences a sense of exhilaration that is scarcely credible. The mustard bath is already a favorite with those engaged in arduous sports, and equally so with society ladies, who find it a refreshing antidote to the fatigue of functions, and a charming way of keeping in that healthy condition so conducive to beauty. Black and White.

To Clean Velvet Collars.

Now that fashion again advocates strictly tailor made gowns to have velvet collars on the cuffs, the question arises how to keep the dark outside collar from rubbing off on the neck of the blouse worn beneath it.

No matter how good a quality is purchased velvet will always leave a soiled mark on any light fabric it comes in contact with, and many a woman is known to wring her hands in despair at the sight of a dirty waist, immediately fresh except for a dirty line across the neck.

To prevent this wipe off the velvet thoroughly with a soft cloth slightly moist, then rub with a rag saturated in pure alcohol. This done once a week regularly, will prevent the velvet from "cracking" and collars will not be soiled in the back.

Laundry Lines.

Yellow clothes can be whitened by boiling them in water to which a little of the following mixture has been added: A teaspoon of soda, lime-water, and turpentine, equal parts of each. Put into a bottle and shake well in fore using.

Medicine stains on sheets or white bed covering should be removed before washing. Make a paste with full of earth and ammonia, and lay it on the stains. When dry, wash in cold water, and, if necessary, repeat the treatment.

Flannels and all woollen articles should not be put through a wringer, as they look better and do not shrink so much if they are well squeezed and shaken.

When It Really Is.

An American firm is selling in England what it calls "Finest Raspberry Jam." The label on each jar has this statement: "This jam is made of cherries with artificial seeds and colored with harmless aniline."

The eleven contributors $23,250

Five of these campaign contributions are from ambassadors to foreign countries, five from ministers plenipotentiary, and one from the military governor whom the United States has set over Cuba. All of them are men with good records in their present positions with the possible exception of Mr. Francis who has been made the subject of some persistent attacks. The indications are that Mr. Francis has really made enemies by strictly attending to business instead of showing attendance on the women about the city of Vienna.

The fact that they all do their work so well does not obscure the other fact of them all being wealthy men who live far beyond the standard set by the salaries paid.

Charles Francis Adams was not a rich man yet he performed the highest service for the United States as minister to the British court in the time of our civil war.

Washington Irving, James Buchanan, James Russell Lowell, Andrew D. White and many other men might be mentioned who achieved notable success as ambassadors to European courts on occasions when notably competent men were required in these positions. Yet neither one of them was rich enough to occupy such a place under the circumstances that have developed in recent years. For the same reason, it is probable that the eminent President Eliot of Harvard University could not afford to be ambassador at the British court if that distinction were offered him as has been suggested. And none of those men could have ever made a large campaign contribution.

The American public is again reminded of the need for a change in administration of the foreign office. Either the salaries must be raised or the United States must own embassy and legation buildings, or our foreign ministers must be snubbed as "strangers", or it must be admitted that wealth is the first requisite and ability a secondary consideration in the choice of men for those positions.

It is not the fault of the men in those positions but of the system. The profession of international diplomacy is daily developing so that special training is required for it. The man who has engaged in wealth getting will rarely have that training, though it may reasonably be expected that men in all sorts of occupations will occasionally develop special aptitude for the work of foreign representative of the government.

The time is rapidly approaching when in selecting these ministers the president will not be able, like Roosevelt, to find men who are both competent and wealthy.

THE FOREST QUEEN

Steamboat Well Known in This Harbor Has Been Repaired

The Portland Press tells this of the steamboat that was on the Isles of Shoals route this summer:

The steamer Forest Queen of the Casco Bay-Harpswell line, which has been upon the South Portland marine railway for some time, has been taken to this side of the harbor. While on the railway a number of repairs were made upon her, the hull having been thoroughly overhauled.

It is the intention of the management to make a number of decided improvements upon the steamer and work will be commenced at once. She will be placed in first class condition and when she enters upon her duties next summer she will be one of the most capable boats in the harbor.

Among the most radical of the improvements will be the extension of the hurricane deck. At the present time the deck ends near the pilot house but it will be out to the stem allowing greater passenger carrying capacity.

All Over America, the News of the Marvelous Dandruff Cures of Parisian Sage Has Spread

A few years ago there was introduced into America a cure for dandruff, falling hair and all scalp diseases.

This hair renewer did not attract much attention for some months, until a progressive business man, hearing of several almost magical cures decided to tell the American people of its mighty power to destroy the deadly dandruff germ.

And today, without any sensational or untruthful advertisement, Parisian Sage is used extensively in almost every town in America. And what has produced this great demand? Simply this: Parisian Sage does a just what we are telling the readers of the Herald it will do.

We claim, and we back our claim with Goodwin E. Philbrick's money back guarantee, that Parisian Sage is the most invigorating and rejuvenating hair tonic. It cures dandruff, stops falling hair and itching scalp; it makes the hair grow strong and vigorous, yet soft and lustrous. It is the only hair dressing that reaches the root bulb of the hair and destroys the dandruff germ.

And to the women who are reading this simple statement of fact, we want to say that Parisian Sage works wonders with women's hair. It will turn dull, harsh and faded hair into beautiful, lustrous hair in a few days, and is the most pleasant and satisfying hair dressing any woman ever used.

"My hair was falling out rapidly when I heard of your guaranteed hair restorer. The first application removed the itching, my hair stopped falling out, and it is soft, glossy and plentiful."—Corrie Williams, 514 Clinton Ave. S. Rochester, N. Y.

Goodwin E. Philbrick sells Parisian Sage for 50 cents a large bottle, or it can be obtained direct from the makers, Groux Mfg. Co., Buffalo, N. Y., all charges prepaid.

SOME THINGS THAT WE HEAR ABOUT

The big fire in Portland on Friday morning, when piers of the Grand Trunk Railroad were destroyed, was a reminder to Officer Robinson of the police force, of the big fire in Portland about forty years ago. At that time Officer Robinson was with his father, who was the captain of a fishing schooner, and they had just arrived in Portland and were lying alongside of the pier where the big fire started. They were forced to hunt the schooner to the end of the wharf and from there saw the fire sweep over the greater part of Portland causing the biggest loss in the history of that city.

There is one place in this city where there are unmistakable evidences of the beginning of the holiday season, and that is the post office. Already the mails have begun to increase, not by pounds but by sacks, and every mail is heavier than usual by from one to three sacks.

This is not created so much as usual by the force of clerks for Postmaster Comer has made it far easier to do the work. In the first place the remodeling of the office has given more room and what was more needed, more ventilation. In the old office the ventilation was very bad and it bothered the employees of the office, but now that the old from over the better boxes has been removed and a new window placed in position it is much better. In addition to better conditions he has succeeded in having an extra clerk appointed for the holidays. The clerks will also have something to enjoy by other cities but never before by this, that is carriages during the extremely heavy days of the Christmas rush. These will be used to haul around the heavy mail and in this way the carrier will escape being weighed down, and the people will get all of the mail where before owing to the strict eight hour rules it was impossible to deliver it all in a day. One of the heaviest mails is that of the 11:35 from Boston known as the "OWL". This arrives at the post office shortly before midnight and it is handled entirely by John Parker, who is night clerk. At the present time the mail consists of several sacks of both first and second class matter and that is all out of the way before one o'clock, before the rest of the mail has been distributed, and if the rain is late, which is not infrequent it means so much more time. Another thing that Mr. Parker does every night, that is collecting the mail from the hotels and from the boxes in the business district at 10:30. This does away with the tax at the police station for the early morning mail. This mail is taken out on the "OWL" and comes back on the morning Pullman and arrives in Boston at 5:30.

The inland waterways that are being discussed and planned all over the country, recalls the fact that an effort was made many years ago to create an inland water way from Manchester in the sea via the Merrimack river. From the annual report upon the improvements of rivers and harbors of the states of Maine

New Hampshire and Massachusetts under the direction of Col George Thom of the U. S. Engineer Corps. printed in 1882, I found the report of the examination of the Merrimack River from Lawrence to Manchester. The report states that under previous appropriations Newburyport Harbor had been made navigable and the river cleared so that a depth of about four feet could be maintained to Mitchell's Falls at Lawrence, where there was a lock. The distance between Lawrence and the harbor mouth 21 miles was opened and a rise of 28 feet was overcome at Mitchell's Falls by the Lawrence canal and two locks which then existed. The engineers thought the plan of a canal practicable and estimated the cost of making the river with the necessary locks suitable for the work, at $518,000, that is for the distance between Mitchell Falls at Lawrence to Manchester, which is twenty-five miles. Whatever became of the idea is not recorded in the report. It, however, was finally given up and while the plan was practical there would have been great objections raised to the work owing to its stopping the power of the river for the mill cities, Lowell, Lawrence and Nashua.

Two large freight trains of western cattle passed through this city yesterday bound for the Grand Trunk Railroad piers at Portland. There they will be loaded on ocean steamers for Europe. One cannot but help thinking that there is no real reason why this work could not be done in this city. Here is a harbor better and deeper in every way than Portland free from ice at all times of the year, and railroad facilities that are the best. Some day it will come when they build ocean steamships of such draft that this will be the only harbor they can get into.

MARINES TO BE TRANSFERRED TO INFANTRY

Washington, Dec. 4—The future of the marine corps, it is authoritatively stated, has been definitely settled by the President. He has decided that this branch of the service should be transferred to the infantry, and has taken preliminary steps toward the practical development of the plan, which will be submitted to Congress, with formal recommendations, with the officers of the general staff and also with General Leonard Wood, who are formulating a scheme outlining the President's ideas.

FIRE IN A MILL

Five Thousand Dollars Damage Reported From Goff's Falls

Manchester, N. H., Dec. 5—Fire caused a damage of $5,000 in one of the Devonshire mills at Goff's Falls last night. The fire broke out in the picker room and rapidly burned through the upper floor to the drying room above. The building is a brick structure of two stories. The fact that the drying room is without windows and there were no drafts to fan the flames saved the building for dozens of lengths of hose burst when the volunteer fire department of the village made efforts to fight the flames. The automatic sprinkling device in the mills was of some service.

A special car conveyed forty firemen from this city to the scene, four miles distant, and N. S. Bean engine and hose 3 hurried to the place of the blaze, arriving in time to prevent the flames from destroying large quantities of cotton stored in the drying room and to check their progress. Much raw wool was burned.

An old-fashioned hand reel is the only piece of apparatus which the village has.

STATE GRANGE CONVENTION

Accommodations Needed for Five Hundred More People

The need for rooms continues. At this time the committee has accommodations in private families for 300 people. Many who do not rent rooms are opening their homes in order that the Grangers may be well cared for and that the good name of Portsmouth as a hospitable city may be upheld.

The committee hopes that many others will follow the example set by these friends of the city and hand in their names giving the number of persons they will care for. There is a need at this time for accommodations for 500 more persons. A personal canvass has been carried on for nearly two weeks now and the committee feels that they must have the help of every citizen of the city if the delegates are going to be properly housed.

The prices charged for rooms are 50 cents a night for one person and $1.00 for two persons in a room. Where breakfast is given a charge of 25 cents each is made.

Persons willing to assist in the entertainment of delegates can telephone or write to Alfred O. Booth, secretary, Young Men's Christian Association.

CATHOLIC CHAPLAIN

Wanted for the Prison Ships At the Navy Yard

It is understood that an effort will be made to have a Catholic chaplain appointed for the work on the prison ships Southern and Topeka and the naval prison at Portsmouth navy yard.

Ever since the ships went into commission and the naval prison was established here the spiritual welfare of the men has been assigned to two men, Rev. C. H. Dickins and Rev. Frank Thompson, who is now in charge.

The Catholic clergy from Portsmouth have administered to the wants of the men at times but it is urgent that something be done by the navy in this line. This fact was made apparent from the result of a mission which has been conducted by Rev. John Griffin of Springfield on the ships and at the prison.
